

April 8, Psalms 45 vs 1-9, Write the beauties of Jesus on my heart

Lord cause our hearts to overflow and a theme of praise to you today. May every word that we speak be like an inscription tool of your Spirit writing your praises on our heart. Cause our words to always be filled with grace and to know that it's not us but your life in us. Only because of this very fact - we are blessed forever and ever. You Jesus gird the sword of the Spirit - the word of God - upon your side and ride out, victorious over our enemies today. Teach yourself awesome things and may we be the awestruck observers of your transforming work in our heart as your arrows sink deep into the heart of your enemies that would distort or separate our worship of you. Give us a holy hatred for anything that would compete with the allegiance that only belongs to you. May we pursue joy, not as a gift that's detached from your person, but one that comes as a result of loving you above all else. This can only come naturally, as we depend on the Holy Spirit, who will bring the life of Christ in actuality to our heart. Because you were anointed above all your fellows. Cause the fragrance of Christ to overflow out of our life. Cause sounds of praise to come out of our life as we see yourself in the ivory palaces seated with you in heavenly places. We want to be among those noble women, who followed you to the cross. We take up our cross and follow you because you've clothed us with your riches beyond measure.
