

February 27, Psalms 27 vs 7-14, Let your heart take courage

Morning prayer:

Lord, teach me to speak your words after you... I know that my desire to seek your face is because you've given me a heart that corresponds with yours. Thank you for genuinely being able to speak your words after you - because of the work of your Son Jesus Christ in heart. So I say with David, when you say, "seek my face" I respond Whole heartedly "your face will I seek".

Afternoon prayer:

Lord, I am convinced that you will not abandon me or hide your face from me. Even if everybody else in my life forsakes me, you will pick me up. And you will command your light to shine in my heart by the face-to-face communication seen in Jesus the living Word.

Evening prayer:

Lord, I believe that I will see your goodness in this life. I trust you to work good in — — — — — area of my life.

I will wait on you, and my heart will be strengthened from within... Because that is where it corresponds with you supernaturally to seek your face. I will not let the spirit of despair take root by doubting your good intentions on my life.
